

General Education Electives

What are General Education Electives? General Education Electives are classes that fall within specific academic discipline areas and may be used to fulfill the “general education elective” requirements in Associate degrees and some certificates.

Additionally, some classes also meet the Cultural Literacy requirement for the AAOT degree. What is meant by academic disciplines? General Education classes are divided into three branches of knowledge, called “academic disciplines.” The three disciplines are: “Arts and Letters,” “Social Sciences,” and “Science, Mathematics and Computer Science.”
